Dear Tina,

We are working with the tests information, but we need from your technical department the scale rating or the meaning of the results of each test, you make 9 test according the ANSI 322/2008 which are defined in each clause, but we need for each test the parameters to determine if is bad, good or excellent. for example the meaning of D1, D2, D3, D4 and so on.

Another example is the peel strange which are the parameters to identify the best card.

Please send us this information for each test to make our final report.

Thanks and best regards.

Hello Americo,

Please see below, we cannot provide you the actual table 2 for durability categories or the standard as it is copyrighted to ANSI. However, we can give you an idea below:

D1 library card has no durability requirement and is typically suitable to be printed paper

D2 gift card has a life expectancy on less than a year with actual usage limited to a few times.

D3 is the lowest durability category for a credit card with daily usage for up to 3 years

D4 is the minimum durability category for a driver license that is carried in a wallet and used for a term of 5 years.

D5 is the highest category that is intended for card that could be used for up to 10 years.

Or you can go to ISOstore.org and purchase the ANSI standard I also believe the ANSI website has the standard you can purchase as well.

Thank you.
